Jasjit (Jesse) Arora is an Associate Attorney and is practicing out of our Encino office. His primary focus is workers' compensation defense on behalf of employers and insurers. Jesse is committed to exceeding client goals and objectives by working aggressively and efficiently. His affable demeanor facilitates his development of attorney client relationships. He emphasizes effective communication at all times.

Prior to joining Albert and Mackenzie, Mr. Arora worked for a boutique workers' compensation defense firm where he gained trial and cross-examination experience. His medical historian background aids in his understanding of complex medical issues.

Jesse earned his Bachelors of Science degree in Information Systems from California State University Northridge. He then obtained his Juris Doctorate from Southwestern Law School in 2016.
