Jason Nikolovski joined Albert and Mackenzie in 2008 and serves as a Partner in our Orange County office. He has extensive experience handling all facets of workers' compensation cases, including the defense of discrimination claims under Labor Code §132a and Serious and Willful claims under Labor Code §4553. Jason is also a Certified Specialist in Workers' Compensation.

As a Partner of the firm, Jason manages the Orange County office and trains new attorneys. Since 2002, he has appeared before all Workers' Compensation Appeals Boards throughout California and serves as Judge Pro Tem. Jason has distinguished himself by earning multiple Take Nothings at trial and ensuring doctors provide a better result for clients at deposition.

Jason grew up in Orange County, California. His interests include music, comic books, and Star Wars. An ideal weekend for Jason comprises of a getaway trip to Las Vegas, Nevada. Two of Jason's favorite places in the world are Cape Town, South Africa and Buenos Aires, Argentina.

He lives by the phrase, "Do not be afraid of death, but to have died before you have lived." One thing Jason absolutely cannot live without is music. His favorite genre is alternative and if he had to choose one album to take to a deserted island, it would be The World Won't Listen by The Smiths.

Jason's first-ever job was as a grocery bagger at Stater Bros. As for his hidden talent, he can sing with a deep, rich voice every time he drinks Bustelo Coffee. Three words to describe Jason are laidback, funny, and nice. Fun fact: Jason is Macedonian.
