Sumit Raghuvanshi is a Managing Partner in the Orange County office. He believes in an aggressive approach to moving files forward. Sumit's open and consistent communication style enables him to obtain great settlement results.

Sumit's overall experience, detailed understanding of the law, and innovative approach to case handling have led him to acquire several Take Nothings and shift doctors' opinions for cross-examinations. Sumit also excels at educating employers about workers' compensation. Prior to joining Albert and Mackenzie, his practice concentrated on the defense of workers' compensation cases and civil litigation to include the defense of 132a and Serious and Willful claims.

Sumit grew up in Orange County, California. His hobbies include reading, watching television, and going to the gym. An ideal weekend for him consists of staying home on a rainy day.

One thing Sumit absolutely cannot live without is tea. His favorite cuisine is Thai and Indian, and his favorite Netflix show is Manifest. Sumit enjoys listening to rock and pop music.

If there were three words to describe Sumit, it would be calm, independent, and thoughtful. Traveling across the world is number one on his bucket list. Sumit lives by the words, "Just keep pushing on."
